and mechanical mounting systems to keep up with ever-increasing processor speeds. In the years since the first low-cost personal computer, the Apple II, was released in 1977, all serious personal computers—PCs, Altairs, and early Macs—have contained hard disk drives, CD and DVD drives, flash memory, and other interfaces to external devices. Newer models have also begun to include larger and cheaper hard disk drives and optical drives, which should be used sparingly, as they can cause relatively high power consumption and large heat output. Driver Backup and Restore PCs and laptops must be secured with a password and this also applies to drivers as it can get stuck in the transfer process. While using the eventually agreed to travel to Senegal after military officers were sent to seize his private residence and ransack his bank accounts. The officers, backed by Senegal, said the funds were needed for his security. In a speech to the nation on Thursday, Jammeh announced he was traveling to a “friendly country” for medical treatment, but gave no further details. His office later confirmed that his country of just over two million people would not be governed for the next three months. An army soldier on Wednesday finally abjured a standoff with his officer, giving the officer command of the military base at Kanilai, about two hours drive northwest of
