com Movies & TV, the home of thousands of titles on DVD and Blu-ray. Analyzing this trend, we drew attention to the fact that the level of sales of individual genres, as a rule, grows during periods of inflation (important general economic phenomena), and during periods of stabilization (real economic conditions), sales of individual genre directions (in particular, films and music) are falling. For example, in 1998 video cassettes contributed to the growth in sales of electronics products, in 1999 (according to the St. Petersburg Inspectorate of Taxation) sales of discs of this particular group of goods fell sharply. The graphs below show the dynamics of sales among the types of audiovisual products. As can be seen, the growth in sales of audio and video products in 1998-2009 is measured by the amount of 140.2 billion rubles. (growth by 67.9%), and only in 2009 it is lower than with inflation (103.2 billion rubles). As in other industries, the growth of retail trade in audio-visual equipment and electronic-video products is largely associated with its resumption in a new quality - multimedia products. The main reason for this phenomenon is the massive transition to a licensed model for the distribution of music and audio broadcasting. Given the relatively young age of the Dolby Digital format, it is important to note that its entry into the Russian market was not accompanied by a significant increase in sales in the first year of release. As a result, in 2009 the indicators of 316.9 and 192.3 million dollars, respectively, were achieved, i.e. sales of media products using Dolby Digital decreased slightly compared to 2008. Audiovisual products (video and audio cassettes, discs) remained one of the most popular formats for music and film production. In 2009, the sales volume of this group of goods amounted to 182.9 billion rubles. This amount is 43.3% less than in 2008 (audio-video cassettes (DVD) - 161.4 billion rubles), and the Russian market for audio-video equipment and video discs decreased by 34.5% compared to the second quarter of 2009 and by 27.5% compared to the same period in 2008. In general, according to IMSD, the audio and video rental market in Russia in 2009-2013 fell by 42.2% - from 463.9 to 18
